Homeschool

-- information about local homeschool support groups and links to homeschool resources

Local Homeschool Support Groups:BEACH - facilitating information-sharing and activities for families in south Baldwin County since 2001. This group coordinates weekly PE days, art classes and volunteer-run field trips. Until their Website is completed, you may contact Desiree Blackwell for more information.

Baldwin Christian Home Educators' Association - Christian-based, but not Christian-exclusive volunteer support group. This group offers co-ops, field trips, and other learning opportunities. Complete access to the site requires group membership ($15/year).

Full Circle Homeschool Support - faith-based support group serving families in Mobile and Baldwin County (most events are held in west Mobile)

Online Resources for Homeschool Families:Important Legal Information for Homeschoolers in Alabama - provided by Home Education Magazine

Homeschooling Information Magazine - probably most useful for parents, this magazine is free, offers resource listings, legal information, and general support information in "traditional" online magazine format, as e-newsletters, and as blogs New to Homeschooling? - general information for those considering homeschooling, and information, advice and resource listings appropriate for families beginning to homeschool. (This site is provided by the National Home Education Network.)

Homeschool Resource Listing - this site, maintained by the Waterboro, Maine Public Library contains a wealth of links to general and specific homeschool resources
